Rhodesians Reject Terms

Britain Grimly Prepares Plans Against Rebels

LONDON (AP) — The British government made plans today to wage economic war against defiant Rhodesia despite the grim knowledge that the cost could be crippling.

The nation braces for rising turmoil in Africa, more bitterness in the Commonwealth, parliamentary strife at home and a harmful effect on its already shaky finances.

These were some of the accepted implications of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's vow to crush Ian Smith's rebel white settler regime in Rhodesia no matter how long it takes.

One immediate concern was that a run on the pound sterling might develop in stock exchanges reacting nervously to the Rhodesian cabinet's rejection of the peace formula Wilson and Smith drew up last weekend.

Warning the Rhodesians that "certain inevitable consequences" must flow from their continued defiance of Britain, Wilson ordered full speed ahead on moves to impose a worldwide ban on trade with the breakaway colony.

LONDON (AP) — The pound sterling came under pressure in the foreign exchange market today as a result of the Rhodesian crisis. The Bank of England moved in with support, laying out dollars from reserves to protect the value of the pound.

The rate still suffered a sharp fall of over three-sixteenths of a cent in terms of the U. S. dollar, dipping well below the $2.79 mark which the authorities normally try to maintain.

The authorities were reported to have lowered their support price twice in less than an hour of business.

On the London Stock Exchange dealing came almost to a halt and prices were marked lower.

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — The Rhodesian government today condemned British plans for settlement of the Rhodesian crisis. It said this meant setting up a "Quisling government" by Britain.

In the summary of a white paper on independence negotiations, it said the British proposals demanded "unconditional and object surrender" of Rhodesian government control of the armed forces, police and law and order control of all gov-

Heart Pump Patient Will Return to Job

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Esperanza del Valle Vasquez, the first person to survive surgery with an artificial heart pump, plans to return to her job as a beautician in Mexico City this week or next.

"I feel marvelous," she said, "I can do almost anything I want now, walk without getting tired and eat anything. It is so marvelous just to be alive."

Mrs. Vasquez, 37, underwent heart surgery in Houston, Tex., Aug. 8 to have two valves in her heart replaced.

A team of doctors led by Dr. Michael DeBakey planted a dome-shaped left ventricle bypass pump in Mrs. Vasquez's right side near her waist to keep her blood circulating while her own heart recovered. The pump was in place for 10 days. In four other similar operations, the patients died of complications.

Clay, Terrell To Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Cassius Clay and Ernie Terrell, recognized as titleholder by the World Boxing Association, agreed today to meet for the undisputed title at the Houston Astrodome Feb. 6.

Hearing Scheduled On Boys' Institute

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) — Central State University trustees have scheduled a public hearing Dec. 15 to air state plans to build a $1 million minimum security institution for delinquent boys here.

The institution, to be built on university property, has come under fire from local property owners. They claim the facility would have an adverse effect on housing valuation in the area.

Anti-War Views Unchanged, Legislator-Elect Declares

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Julian Bond, bolstered by a Supreme Court decision in his bid to claim a seat in the Georgia Legislature, says the long fight has not changed his views on Viet Nam which kept him out of the State House of Representatives.

Elected three times from an Atlanta district, he twice was barred by House members because he endorsed a statement by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee which accused the United States of aggression in Viet Nam.

At the time, Bond also said he admired the courage of those who burned their draft cards although he would not burn his own.

The Supreme Court ruled unanimously Monday that the Georgia House could not bar the former SNCC officer because of his statements.

Asked if his views had changed, Bond replied, "Exactly the same."

Chief Justice Earl Warren, writing the court's opinion, said the House action "violated Bond's right of free expression under the First Amendment."

Rep. James Lan of Statesboro said he would abide by the decision. "When I filed my original protest against Julian Bond," he said, "I felt he should not be seated, and I still feel the same way. I felt that I not only had the right to contest his seating but that I had that duty to my people." He called the court decision disturbing.

Rep. James Floyd of Trion, a 14-year legislative veteran who fought Bond's seating, said he was "shocked and amazed by the Supreme Court decision."

Rep. George L. Smith of Swainsboro, expected to be elected Georgia House speaker, said, "Is one alternative other than seating him. In view of the U. S. Supreme Court decision, that is the law of this nation now."

The Supreme Court action reversed a 2-1 ruling by a special three-judge federal court in Atlanta which held that the Georgia House had power under state law to disqualify Bond based on its conclusion that he could not sincerely take the oath of office.

Jayne Mansfield Gets Pneumonia

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Actress Jayne Mansfield, who has spent the last 10 days at the hospital bedside of her 6-year-old son, has developed viral pneumonia.

Miss Mansfield's physician said the actress became weakened as she stayed with her son, Zoltan Hargitay, at Coneo Valley Community Hospital.

Zoltan developed spinal meningitis after being attacked by a lion. He had undergone surgery for a fractured skull and removal of his spleen after the mauling. He was listed in satisfactory condition.

The actress has been ordered to spend several days in bed at home.

Group Studies Volunteer Army

CHICAGO (AP) — A national draft conference, its discussion of the workings of the Selective Service System behind it, turns today to an alternative: an all-volunteer standing army.

Two economists agree the nation can well afford one.

Prof. Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago and Walter Y. Oi of the University of Washington argued in papers presented to the conference that the social and economic costs of the draft now pose far greater costs to the country than would a voluntary army.

Their views are expected to be sharply challenged by other delegates to the conference at the University of Chicago.

The Friedman-Oi papers led off the third day of the four-day meeting.

Student Vote Indicated in UC Boycott

Faculty-Backed Chancellor Rejects Campus Demands

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Backed by an overwhelming faculty vote, the University of California's chancellor met Monday night with a student committee in an unsuccessful attempt to end a classroom boycott.

After meeting with Chancellor Roger W. Heyns, the student committeemen said they would take a vote to determine whether to continue the strike.

During his first meeting with the committee, Heyns rejected demands that police never again be called to the university, that certain nonstudent political groups be allowed campus rights, and that disciplinary hearings be open. He also refused to promise amnesty for students involved in demonstrations.

The faculty vote had come as Heyns prepared for a special Board of Regents meeting today concerning the boycott.

"We affirm our confidence in the chancellor's leadership and pledge our continued support and cooperation," 795 professors of the Academic Senate voted. The tally against Heyns' position was 28.

Trouble started last Wednesday after an altercation concerning a Navy recruiting table in the Student Union. Police and sheriff's deputies arrested 10 persons, including six nonstudents.

Before meeting with the Student Strike Committee, Heyns specified it could not include any nonstudent, an action aimed at Mario Savio, one of those arrested.

Ohio Speeds Up Campaign for Trade, Industry

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Development Director Fred P. Neuschwander planned departure for Belgium today to set up an Ohio trade office while an Ohio industrial development team continues blitzing the New York City area.

Neuschwander is to select office space and personnel for the Brussels office sponsored jointly by the state and the Ohio ports of Ashtabula, Cleveland, Conneaut, Lorain and Toledo, plus the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce.

In New York, meanwhile, Asst. Development Director Patterson People reported first-day efforts of a week-long drive to induce industry to locate new plants in Ohio promised success.

He said 67 New York firms were visited by Ohio promoters under his captaincy and nine "expressed definite interest in Ohio sites for coming expansions."

Pilot, 21, Takes Weather Chance, Dies in Crackup

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — The advice from Port Columbus to light plane fliers Monday was not to go up in the face of nasty weather, but a young Zanesville pilot did—and died.

Michael Pagath, 21, an Ohio State University engineering student who commuted from Zanesville in his own plane, went down in a farm field in rain and fog. He was about 20 miles out of Port Columbus en route home when the crash occurred, making a twisted wreck of his single-engine craft.

Alone in the plane, Pagath was pinned in the wreckage for some time before officers could remove him. The scene was west of nearby Granville, and just south of Ohio 161.

Reilly Takes Oath As Interim Auditor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Archer E. Reilly Jr. was sworn in as state auditor today to serve a short term through Jan. 6. He won the short term in the Nov. 8 election.

Roger Cloud, who has been serving as state auditor under appointment, was elected Nov. 9 to the full term of auditor and will take office Jan. 9. Meanwhile, he will serve as deputy auditor without pay under appointment by Reilly.

63 Cong Taken Near Cambodia

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Another U. S. plane was shot down over North Viet Nam today, bringing the toll in the last 24 hours of the quickening air war to three American aircraft.

The U. S. Command announced that American jets tangled with Communist MIG interceptors Monday for the fourth straight day, but there was no word that any American or North Vietnamese planes were downed in the dogfights.

In South Viet Nam, Vietnamese military headquarters announced the mass surrender of 62 Viet Cong guerrillas in the enemy-infested Hong Chong — Twin Sisters — mountain area on the Gulf of Siam near the Cambodian border.

A spokesman said that 2,250 peasants in the area dominated by the Viet Cong also sought the refuge of government and U. S. officials. The U. S. Agency for International Development arranged to send them rice, cooking oil, blankets and other supplies.

U. S. air raids over North Viet Nam once again dominated war developments and the U. S. and South Vietnamese commands reported only small, scattered ground fighting.

Ike, Facing Knife, Cancels Gotham Talks

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower today canceled a trip to New York because of the widespread public concern over his health, a spokesman said.

The spokesman said Eisenhower will leave from Gettysburg probably Thursday morning to enter Walter Reed Hospital in Washington for a gallbladder operation.

The 76-year-old ex-President was scheduled to go to New York today for a Football Hall of Fame dinner and a luncheon with a business group.

The spokesman said Eisenhower felt the public concern for his health might distract from the real purpose of the football banquet.

"He felt his appearance might take away the honor that is to go to the real heroes," the spokesman said. He said Eisenhower expressed regret about not going.

Doubts China Would Risk Blow by U.S.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The war in Viet Nam "just might fade out" with no formal end, U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said today.

The American envoy, serving his second tour of duty as ambassador to South Viet Nam, said the overall situation in the country is better than it was a year ago although "progress is uneven."

In an interview with the Mutual Broadcasting System, Lodge recalled that the situation was "extremely bad" in May 1965 but took a turn for the better last July.

"I think you could say that they cannot win," said Lodge. "I think you could say that we cannot lose, we cannot be pushed out. I think you could say that we haven't won yet."

Concerning the possibility the war might just fade away, the ambassador explained that people in the Orient are "extremely realistic."

"The (Oriental) man," he said, "makes up his mind one day that this thing that looked pretty good really isn't so very good. It's not going to work out, so he just decides to fade out. And nobody admits anything. There's no treaty, there's no headline. They don't even admit they were in a war, let alone admit they got defeated at it."

"And so I think it just might fade out, because that's what happened in two other places in Southeast Asia; but, of course, nobody knows."

He was referring to the Philippines and Malaysia.

Lodge said he doubted that Communist China would enter the war because "it would simply risk a devastating blow by the United States."

Kosygin Admits French Advances

LYON, France (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, an old textile man, congratulated a French capitalist today on his company's advances in the manufacture of synthetic textile fibers.

Kosygin, who was once a high official in the Soviet textile industry, visited a synthetic-fiber plant operated by Rhone-Poulenc, France's largest private corporation.

He told Wilfrid Baumgartner, president of Rhone-Poulenc: "I have seen things in your plant indicating that you are making more progress in some areas than we are. I congratulate you."

Farm Bureau Names Information Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ralph Moore of Columbus was appointed director of information of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation today, under a reorganization announced by C. Maurice Wieting, vice president for information and education.

Moore also continues as business manager for the Buckeye Farm News, federation publication. Richard Prether of Westerville was named director of radio-visual services and remains associate director of information. Wieting remains as editor of the Buckeye Farm News.

Ministers Endorse Two School Levies

Upcoming special elections on Tuesday for operating levies in two school districts have been endorsed by the Executive Committee of the Pickaway County Ministerial Assn.

The area ministers have endorsed the 3.5-mill operating levy for Circleville schools as well as the levies total nine mills for benefit of the Teays Valley District schools.

The ministers, in a meeting Tuesday morning, noted they were aware of the present crisis in the area of school support in both the city and county school districts. Because of this "we heartily endorse passage of the school levies," the clergymen concurred.

Members of the Executive Committee, responsible for the endorsements, are the Rev. Richard Frasure, chairman; the Rev. Foster Jenne, vice chairman; the Rev. Paul Wachs, secretary; and the Rev. Carl Zehner, treasurer.

AFL-CIO Challenges Auto Rate Increase

CLEVELAND (AP) — The executive board of the Ohio AFL-CIO authorized its officers Monday to challenge automobile insurance rate increases that went into effect Thursday.

The governing board of the statewide labor organization told federation officers to ask William H. Morris, state insurance director, to hold public hearings on the rate increase. A petition seeking the hearing is expected to be filed this week.

More than 100 scholars, government specialists and students are attending the meeting — seeking ways to avoid alleged inequities in the present system to which attention has been drawn by the growing demands of the Viet Nam war.

Friedman who served as Barry Goldwater's economic adviser during the 1964 presidential campaign, said having a voluntary army would: — Produce a lower turnover in the armed services and permit more intensive training.

— Preserve the freedom of individuals to serve or not to serve and, at the same time, prevent hasty marriages.

— "Permit colleges and universities to pursue their proper educational function, freed alike from the incubus of the half-mil-

The plane lost today — the 438th reported loss of the war over North Viet Nam — was an Air Force RF4C photo reconnaissance jet downed by ground fire near Dien Bien Phu close to the Laotian border. It was the 11th American plane lost in the north since Friday.

The two fliers aboard were picked up in a rescue operation that required three helicopters which also rescued two of the parameedics sent in to aid the jet pilots.

'Airlift' Aids Non-Strikers At Ohio Plant

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — Non-strikers at the Union Carbide Metals Co. plant here were being supplied by helicopter today — apparently determined to stay in the building while striking steelworkers picket at the gates.

A spokesman for the strike-bound plant, a division of Union Carbide Corp., refused to give the number of men in the building. He said they had been inside since Nov. 29, when the mass picketing began.

A State Highway Patrol spokesman said it "looks like the Berlin Airlift" with helicopters making a drop inside the plant gates about every hour with provisions.

A spokesman for Local 3081, United Steelworkers of America, said the people inside could come out anytime they want. Asked if they could get back in, the spokesman said "they would have to pass through the picket line."

The union charged the company with importing strike-breakers and flying them in the plant by helicopter. Pickets have gone to Casement Airport in Painesville and to two companies which supply Union Carbide—Detrex Chemical Industries, Inc., and Linde Air & Welding Material Co.

Intimidated Elderly Lady Loses Savings

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — "Don't tell anyone about this or we'll come back and kill you," the 77-year-old Santa Monica woman was warned.

She obeyed until Monday, when she told a friend who gave police this story:

The woman was waiting for a bus last month when another woman pointed a gun at her and demanded money. The woman offered her purse, containing $15.

"That's not enough," was the answer. "We'll take you away and kill you."

"Please," said the woman, "I have money in the bank."

She was driven home to get her bank books, then to a bank. She gave the woman her savings — $3,050.

Brandt Becomes Foreign Minister

BONN, Germany (AP) — Willy Brandt, former mayor of West Berlin, became West German's foreign minister today, heading the first group of Social Democrats to join a German government since 1930.

Brandt will also serve as vice chancellor to Kurt George Kiesinger, the Christian Democratic head of the new coalition government.

Brandt, 52, assumed his new job at a brief ceremony in Bonn's Foreign Ministry building.

Doubts China Would Risk Blow by U.S.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The war in Viet Nam "just might fade out" with no formal end, U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said today.

The American envoy, serving his second tour of duty as ambassador to South Viet Nam, said the overall situation in the country is better than it was a year ago although "progress is uneven."

In an interview with the Mutual Broadcasting System, Lodge recalled that the situation was "extremely bad" in May 1965 but took a turn for the better than July.

"I think you could say that they cannot win," said Lodge. "I think you could say that we cannot lose, we cannot be pushed out. I think you could say that we haven't won yet."

Concerning the possibility the war might just fade away, the ambassador explained that people in the Orient are "extremely realistic."

"The (Oriental) man," he said, "makes up his mind one day that this thing that looked pretty good really isn't so very good. It's not going to work out, so he just decides to fade out. And nobody admits anything. There's no treaty, there's no headline. They don't even admit they were in a war, let alone admit they got defeated at it."

"And so I think it just might fade out, because that's what happened in two other places in Southeast Asia; but, of course, nobody knows."

He was referring to the Philippines and Malaysia.

Lodge said he doubted that Communist China would enter the war because "it would simply risk a devastating blow by the United States."

Kosygin Admits French Advances

LYON, France (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, an old textile man, congratulated a French capitalist today on his company's advances in the manufacture of synthetic textile fibers.

Kosygin, who was once a high official in the Soviet textile industry, visited a synthetic-fiber plant operated by Rhone Poulenc, France's largest private corporation.

He told Wilfrid Baumgartner, president of Rhone Poulenc: "I have seen things in your plant indicating that you are making more progress in some areas than we are. I congratulate you."

Farm Bureau Names Information Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ralph Moore of Columbus was appointed director of information of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation today, under a reorganization announced by C. Maurice Wieting, vice president for information and education.

Moore also continues as business manager for the Buckeye Farm News, federation publication. Richard Prether of Westerville was named director of radio-visual services and remains associate director of information. Wieting remains as editor of the Buckeye Farm News.

In the weekend meeting, Smith and Wilson were reported as agreed on a plan to end the Rhodesian rebellion. But the Rhodesian Cabinet rejected the plan Monday. In his rejection, Smith raised all the points mentioned in the white paper.

Several leading businessmen reacted pessimistically to the news that Britain would go ahead with plans for mandatory United Nations sanctions against Rhodesia.

One who asked his name not to be mentioned said he believed the effect of further sanctions had been underestimated.

"The government has said that we have survived sanctions so far and new additional sanctions will not be much worse," he said. "But even if it's only an extra 25 per cent cutback in our trade, its going to have a drastic effect on our economy."

Smith's hold over the country's 217,000 whites remained solid. A large proportion of die-hard whites were jubilant that the uncertainty created by the negotiations had been ended and Rhodesia firmly set on the path of continued independence.

Student Vote

(Continued from Page 1) rested. While a student in 1961, Savio led the Free Speech Movement which disrupted classwork in demonstrations demanding greater student political liberty. Some 700 were arrested then.

Savio, whose application for admission was rejected last month, was not among the committeemen.

At the crowded Academic Senate meeting, Heyn's vote of confidence was included in a resolution that said in part:

"In view of the complexity of recent events, we urge the chancellor not to institute university disciplinary proceedings against students or student organizations (from last Wednesday to the present)."

"We call for creation of a faculty - student commission to consider new modes of governance and self-regulation" and that "the concerns and grievances expressed by so many of our students should be given serious consideration in formation and deliberation of the commission."

The resolution said also: "We join the chancellor (in saying) that the use of external police force, except in extreme emergency and of mass coercion, is inappropriate to the function of a university."

Heyns has said he approved of the call for police last Wednesday, although use of such force "runs counter to academic traditions" and "should be used only as a last resort."

In Sacramento, Gov.-elect Ronald Reagan told a news conference that he didn't believe the university administration should negotiate with the students. Reagan has stated he favors expelling striking students.

Heyns says he will not ask for courtroom amnesty for those arrested, and the district attorney's office has indicated all of them would be prosecuted. Savio was among those arrested.

New Broadway Show Gets Enthusiastic Reception

NEW YORK (AP) — A little two-role comedy has been converted into a big two-role musical with beguiling charm in "I Do! I Do!" which Monday night began a long, long run at Broadway's 46th Street Theater.

Mary Martin and Robert Preston make a superb team for the sentimental marriage fable based upon Jan De Hartog's noted play "The Fourposter." Credit, too, a witty, melodic score by Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, and director Gower Champion for putting everything together with pace, grace and taste.

It's a good thing all that adroit artistry is on hand, for the basic story is predictably simple-hearted every moment, from nuptial innocence to baby-rearing, bickering, extracurricular alliance and reunion. How such material is used is what counts.

Miss Martin makes the trip from youth to age with more than mere gusty fervor and surface skill. She becomes those elder episodes with a convincing reality. Preston is at his best in brisk music hall turns that somehow fit the plot.

The music fits the valentine spirit of the affair with lyrics that are perceptively droll and tunes brimming with melody. Just about everything that happens to every wedded guy and gal was deftly cited to thunderous opening night applause.

What other press critics said: Norman Nadel, World Journal Tribune: "What makes 'I Do! I Do!' unique is that you're always watching two of the most talented and entertaining performers in the American musical theater."

Walter Kerr, Times: "For the purposes of 'I Do! I Do!' a Santa Claus has itched a very high-powered Donner and a very high-powered Blitzen to a very low-powered one horse shay."

Richard Watts Jr., Post: "I Do! I Do!' which opened last night is charming, tuneful, warm-hearted and delightful, and it is acted to perfection."

Shipwreck Survivor Improves

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — Doctors at Ashtabula General Hospital hope to have Dennis Hale home for Christmas.

Hale is the only survivor of the 29-man crew of the Daniel J. Morrell, which broke in half and sank a week ago during a severe gale on Lake Huron.

Hale and his wife, Bertha, returned 350 miles by ambulance Monday from Harbor Beach, Mich.

The trip seemed much quicker than going up by plane and not knowing what had happened to him," Mrs. Hale said. "God certainly has taken care of him."

Doctors at the hospital found the 26-year-old Hale in "amazingly good condition," Mrs. Hale said. Hale clung to a life raft for 36 hours, partly covered by the dead bodies of three crewmen, before his rescue by the Coast Guard.

Mrs. Claytor Hale, his mother, said he had swollen legs and a black and blue mark on his arm.

Christmas Seal Donations Due

This is "Do It Week" for sending contributions for Christmas Seals, according to the Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Assn.

Officials said of contributions are mailed before this week is over, money will be saved by the local society since reminders will not have to be mailed. Money obtained from the 966 campaign determines the extent of the program carried out here during the next fiscal year.

Mrs. Margaret Hickey, executive secretary, noted the society plans to send reminders beginning Monday. Donations in any amount will be accepted and Pickaway Countians are asked to keep and use the seals sent to them.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U. S. Air Force leaders in Viet Nam probably will press anew for bombing of North Viet Nam's jet airfields because of the greatly increased activity by MIG jet fighters, sources indicated today.

Decision - making U. S. officials in Washington have ruled out any strikes against North Viet Nam's jet airfields, at least until now. They said there is no need to hit them until the North Vietnamese air force becomes a serious threat.

U. S. Air Force leaders believe it would be prudent to take out the jet fields. One source said the Air Force has repeated urged such action. The much increased activity of the North Vietnamese MIGs gives the air generals a new lever.

In a related development, Communist China charged that U.S. planes sank six Chinese fishing boats in the Gulf of Tonkin last week, killing 17 Chinese fishermen and wounding 29 others. U.S. officials declined to comment on the charge.

In the raids on the north Monday, U.S. pilots reported inflicting heavy damage to the vital Yen Bai railroad yards 76 miles northwest of Hanoi, silencing 11 antiaircraft gun positions, damaging a missile site and destroying a radar site.

Navy, Air Force and Marine pilots flew 85 bombing missions against the north Monday, or 250 to 300 individual strikes.

U.S. headquarters announced the start of a new operation, named Mississippi, by units of the 1st Marine Division in the northern part of South Viet Nam.

The Marines said they killed eight Communist soldiers and captured 19 since the operation started Nov. 29 about 25 miles southwest of Da Nang.

U.S. pilots flew 391 sorties over South Viet Nam Monday and South Vietnamese pilots flew 140.

Speech, Hearing Therapy Program Is Approved

The State Department of Health has approved an application of local schools requesting a speech and hearing therapy program, according to George D. McDowell, county superintendent of schools.

A meeting was held in McDowell's office yesterday morning in which the executive heads of the three county School districts, Logan Elm, Teays Valley and Westfall, offered classroom space for the program.

Also attending the meeting were officials from the state department of health, Dr. Frank Moore and Mrs. Helen Pickens of the county health department; Mrs. Pauline Kirkpatrick of the city health department; Mrs. Elliott Mason and other officers of the Pickaway County Crippled Children's Society.

Solons Seek Completion of Airport Study

Moves to speed up a survey that would produce an estimated cost figure for an airport were indicated Monday by the Pickaway County Commissioners.

Commissioner Charles Morris Jr. suggested the governing body accelerate the engineering study in every way possible in order to bring it to a conclusion.

The survey, authorized in October, initially was delayed by unfavorable weather and the harvesting of crops at the proposed site. The study is being conducted at a Washington Twp. location that includes about 30 acres owned by the county and another adjoining 14 acres under option from the Cronan family.

The study is being conducted under supervision of the County Engineering Department.

HOWEVER, another onslaught of bad weather and an obligation to complete a government report on highway safety and traffic control devices in the county have created additional delay for the engineer branch of local government.

Lloyd Melvin, commission chairman, said he feels the survey project will be completed as soon as possible.

In other business, the solons authorized the purchase of a water cooler for the Children's Home. Cost figures are being compiled by Gordon Auto Parts.

The commissioners are scheduled to meet Wednesday to launch a study on annual budgets that have been submitted by department heads for the coming year.

and an F105 Thunderchief were downed during bombing raids on the north Monday, while other American pilots clashed with MIG21s and advanced model MIG21s north and northwest of Hanoi. The pilots of both the downed planes were listed as missing.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U. S. Air Force leaders in Viet Nam probably will press anew for bombing of North Viet Nam's jet airfields because of the greatly increased activity by MIG jet fighters, sources indicated today.

Decision - making U. S. officials in Washington have ruled out any strikes against North Viet Nam's jet airfields, at least until now. They said there is no need to hit them until the North Vietnamese air force becomes a serious threat.

U. S. Air Force leaders believe it would be prudent to take out the jet fields. One source said the Air Force has repeated urged such action. The much increased activity of the North Vietnamese MIGs gives the air generals a new lever.

In a related development, Communist China charged that U. S. planes sank six Chinese fishing boats in the Gulf of Tonkin last week, killing 17 Chinese fishermen and wounding 29 others. U. S. officials declined to comment on the charge.

In the raids on the north Monday, U. S. pilots reported inflicting heavy damage to the Yen Bay railroad yards 76 miles northwest of Hanoi, silencing 11 anti-aircraft gun positions, damaging a missile site and destroying a radar site.

Navy, Air Force and Marine pilots flew 85 bombing missions against the north Monday, or 250 to 300 individual strikes.

U. S. headquarters announced the start of a new operation, named Mississippi, by units of the 1st Marine Division in the northern part of South Viet Nam.

The Marines said they killed eight Communist soldiers and captured 19 since the operation started Nov. 29 about 25 miles southwest of Da Nang.

U. S. pilots flew 391 sorties over South Viet Nam Monday and South Vietnamese pilots flew 140.

Speech, Hearing Therapy Program Is Approved

The State Department of Health has approved an application of local schools requesting a speech and hearing therapy program, according to George D. McDowell, county superintendent of schools.

A meeting was held in McDowell's office yesterday morning in which the executive heads of the three county school districts, Logan Elm, Teays Valley and Westfall, offered classroom space for the program.

Also attending the meeting were officials from the state department of health, Dr. Frank Moore and Mrs. Helen Pickens of the county health department; Mrs. Pauline Kirkpatrick of the city health department; Mrs. Elliott Mason and other officers of the Pickaway County Crippled Children's Society.

Christmas Seal Donations Due

This is "Do It Week" for sending contributions for Christmas Seals, according to the Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Assn.

Officials said of contributions are mailed before this week is over, money will be saved by the local society since reminders will not have to be mailed.

Money obtained from the 966 campaign determines the extent of the program carried out here during the next fiscal year.

Mrs. Margaret Hickey, executive secretary, noted the society plans to send reminders beginning Monday. Donations in any amount will be accepted and Pickaway Countians are asked to keep and use the seals sent to them.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: Women act their best in December and look their worst in February.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

RICHARD PERRY, whose book about polar bears is attracting wide attention, has some advice for any "Try and Stop Me" readers who are likely to encounter a polar bear in the course of their daily goings and comings. "If the bear chases you," suggests Mr. Perry, "just stand still. Let him sniff you. After a sniff or two, he'll lose interest. Man's scent is not attractive to polar bears."

We'll take Mr. Perry's word for this.

The father of an 18-year-old co-ed phoned her dormitory one night at about ten to remind her that the next day was her mother's birthday, and was shocked, to put it mildly, when a male voice answered the call. "Don't be so upset," counseled the male voice. "We've been meaning to tell you. Your daughter and I are engaged."

"In what?" roared the father.

Of all definitions of eternity ever attempted, CBS's Philip Sterling prefers this one by an old Baptist minister: "Brethren and sisters, if a single sparrow hopped from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific Ocean, one hop a day, with a single drop of water in his bill, and then hopped back at the same speed and kept this up until all the water in the Atlantic Ocean was in the Pacific Ocean, then, brethren and sisters, then it would be only daybreak in eternity."

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — It is a time for taking the brightest view possible of the past and projecting great hopes for the future. The process is well under way now, for the economic report of the President is to be published next month.

This document in the past has shown all the skills of the economist in assessing difficult problems and the hopes, foibles and frustrations of both the economist and the politician.

At this time last year, for example, the President was preparing a report that said:

"I will also look to the Federal Reserve System to provide assistance in promoting the objectives we all share:

— Meeting the credit needs of a vigorous and growing economy, while preventing excessive credit flows that could carry the pace of expansion beyond prudent speed limits."

Cooperation between the Federal and the fiscal officials, the President and his advisers, was not one of the notable economic achievements of 1965.

Nor was the hope fulfilled that "business and labor accept the principles of the guideposts for noninflationary behavior." The guideposts were pounded into the ground by both groups.

Hopefully, the President and his advisers wrote a year ago that "those who proclaim inflation is already here have not turned over all the price tags." At the time the President had a case. He has none now.

The "bitter defense of freedom in Viet Nam" was said to carry an "incalculable" price in death, pain and grief, "but the economic cost of Viet Nam imposes no unbearable burden on our resources."

Increased spending for Viet Nam was one of the factors that made for inflation and caused the President to announce spending cutbacks.

Despite this, the annual economic report is a remarkable assessment of the state of the nation, its potentials and its weakness.

In describing "the new economic environment" early this year, the 1966 report accurately posed these as the key questions:

— Will there be enough plant capacity to produce all the goods and services buyers will seek? (A matter of interpretation, but there are some indications capacity was strained).

Can our employers find the labor they will require to man their production lines? (There were many problems, of course, but production wasn't stifled.)

— Can we avoid bottlenecks in major industries of key skills that would hamper our expansion? (There are always some bottlenecks, but many of them also were avoided in the past year).

— Can we keep a destructive price-wage spiral from getting under way? (A price-wage spiral got under way).

— Can we move ahead with the Great Society programs and at the same time meet our needs for defense? (A question mark right to the end. Opponents of the administration say Great Society spending should have been cut).

And what is the President thinking now? Any answer would be guesswork, but is there perhaps, a tip from his report of a year ago when he wrote:

"I am convinced that we should levy higher taxes rather than accept inflation — which is the most unjust and capricious form of taxation."

Why Prop Up Faltering Reds? By John Chamberlain

With the fiftieth anniversary of the original Communist revolution coming up, the Red world approaches 1967 in bad shape. Mao Tse-tung's chosen successor, Lin Biao, has been forced to use an eighteen-year-old hoodlum element to keep older Communists in line. In eastern Europe the Rumanians and the Bulgarians are straining at the Moscow leash. Indonesia has broken away from the Red orbit; Ghana has ousted its Red dictator, and Castro's penetration of Venezuela and other Latin American countries has faltered. Yet, ironically, 1967 is likely to be remembered as the year in which the West, with victory in its grasp, chose to throw it all away by various deals designed to let both Red China and Soviet Russia off the hook.

The Johnson Administration, seeking to buy the services of Moscow as an "honest broker" in settling the Vietnamese War, seems willing to go to almost any extremes of commercial appeasement in eastern Europe. American businessmen tour Hungary and Rumania looking for openings. Canada pledges its surplus wheat for years ahead to Red China, and the Australians, who have troops in South Vietnam, double-cross themselves by selling their own wheat to Mao in a deal that could release Red Chinese food to a straitened Viet Cong. Then there is the grand farce at the UN, where U. S. Ambassador Goldberg hardly bothers to conceal the Administration's eagerness to bring the Red Chinese to the Tower of Babel on Manhattan's East River.

In Strasbourg, where the Council of Europe sits, a particularly ominous move is shaping up. The Council of Europe, which Winston Churchill once thought might be the seed institution of a federated European nation, has had a committee on Non Represented Nations. This committee has represented the captive nations' aspirations to freedom and ultimate membership in the Council. But now the news from Strasbourg is that the Committee on Non-represented Nations is about to be changed into a tabby cat affair which will try to "get along" with the present governments of East European Communist nations. In short, the Council of Europe is following the non-Communist attitude. Just about a year ago a prominent official in Radio Free Europe told this columnist that he confidently expected at least one East European nation to wriggle free of Soviet control within a couple of years. The prophecy was not for attribution by name. Maybe Nikolai Ceausescu, the Communist leader of Rumania, will "wriggle free" of Moscow in a manner of speaking. But, if Moscow allows Rumania to run its own economic affairs, this may only mean that the Russians don't want to be saddled with the business of paying out to keep the Rumanian economy viable.

As for real freedom elsewhere in eastern Europe, it won't exist as long as the present Marxist regimes maintain their power. The question of their independence from Moscow is academic. So why make things easy for them? If Communism is about to fall anywhere, we should be giving it a push wherever it is tottering. Instead we seem bent on the possibly suicidal mission of propping it up everywhere.

The argument is made that, since the unity of the Red world is visibly breaking up, the West might as well make its deals with separate Communist units. Apparently nobody in the various foreign offices of the world has stopped to consider that the Red break-up might go faster and farther if the West were to take a hands-off

To Heck with Evidence!

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: Women act their best in December and look their worst in February.

Men who are always showing off a new, gadgety kind of cigarette lighter are probably making up for the fact that on some Christmas long ago they didn't get the bright new sled they wanted.

If a fellow hasn't learned by the age of 40 to keep his socks from looking sloppy, he probably never will.

The giraffe, as well as the helicopter, looks like something designed by a committee.

Religious architecture has now progressed to the point where it is difficult, in driving along a highway, to tell a new church from a ski lodge or another quaint cathedral of the hamburger. There may be some poetic justice in this, however, for certainly a roadside church is the oldest form of refreshment stand.

When a woman is worried about something, she buys a new hat. A man in the same plight usually gets his shoes shined.

John O'Hara still writes the most readable prose of any American novelist — but, like life itself, it sometimes leaves you with the unsatisfied feeling it hasn't quite made a point.

A child can get more pure joy out of an icicle than a grownup can from a $1,000 bill.

There are few things more femininely appealing about a girl than seeing her, after she's cooked you a good meal and pick a few breadcrumbs absently from the table and eat them as she talks to you. That's the kind of girl every man should marry.

The worst thing about a cat is that it always curls up and dozes in the chair or sofa next to the only lamp in the house that is fit to read by.

The chief blessing of the electric typewriter is that it makes it easier for stenographers to get their personal correspondence written on company time.

The dullest men in any office are those who invariably wear a white shirt to work. A striped or colored shirt on a man is a sign that he isn't altogether a victim of custom, formula, and a fixed routine.

Nothing divides the world into friend or foe more quickly than a third martini.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

RICHARD PERRY, whose book about polar bears is attracting wide attention, has some advice for any "Try and Stop Me" readers who are likely to encounter a polar bear in the course of their daily goings and comings.

"If the bear chases you," suggests Mr. Perry, "just stand still. Let him sniff you. After a sniff or two, he'll lose interest. Man's scent is not attractive to polar bears."

We'll take Mr. Perry's word for this.

The father of an 18-year-old co-ed phoned her dormitory one night at about ten to remind her that the next day was her mother's birthday, and was shocked, to put it mildly, when a male voice answered the call. "Don't be so upset," counseled the male voice. "We've been meaning to tell you. Your daughter and I are engaged."

Of all definitions of eternity ever attempted, CBS's Philip Sterling prefers this one by an old Baptist minister: "Brethren and sisters, if a single sparrow hopped from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific Ocean, one hop a day, with a single drop of water in his bill, and then hopped back at the same speed and kept this up until all the water in the Atlantic Ocean was in the Pacific Ocean, then, brethren and sisters, then it would be only daybreak in eternity."

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — It is a time for taking the brightest view possible of the past and projecting great hopes for the future. The process is well under way now, for the economic report of the President is to be published next month.

This document in the past has shown all the skills of the economist in assessing difficult problems and the hopes, foibles and frustrations of both the economist and the politician.

At this time last year, for example the President was preparing a report that said: "I will also look to the Federal Reserve System to provide assistance in promoting the objectives we all share."

Meeting the credit needs of a vigorous and growing economy, while preventing excessive credit flows that could carry the pace of expansion beyond prudent speed limits.

Cooperation between the Federal and the fiscal officials, the President and his advisers, was not one of the notable economic achievements of 1966.

Nor was the hope fulfilled that "business and labor accept the principles of the guideposts for noninflationary behavior." The guideposts were pounded in to the ground by both groups.

Hopefully, the President and his advisers wrote a year ago that "those who proclaim inflation is already here have not turned over all the price tags." At the time the President had a case. He has none now.

The "bitter defense of freedom in Viet Nam" was said to carry an "incalculable" price in death, pain and grief, "but the economic cost of Viet Nam imposes no unbearable burden on our resources."

Increased spending for Viet Nam was one of the factors that made for inflation and caused the President to announce spending cutbacks.

Despite this, the annual economic report is a remarkable assessment of the state of the nation, its potentials and its weakness.

In describing "the new economic environment" early this year, the 1966 report accurately posed these as the key questions:

— Will there be enough plant capacity to produce all the goods and services buyers will seek? (A matter of interpretation, but there are some indications capacity was strained).

Can our employers find the labor they will require to man their production lines? (There were many problems, of course, but production wasn't stifled.)

— Can we avoid bottlenecks in major industries of key skills that would hamper our expansion? (There are always some bottlenecks, but many of them also were avoided in the past year).

— Can we keep a destructive price-wage spiral from getting under way? (A price-wage spiral got under way).

— Can we move ahead with the Great Society programs and at the same time meet our needs for defense? (A question mark right to the end. Opponents of the administration say Great Society spending should have been cut).

And what is the President thinking now? Any answer would be guesswork, but is there perhaps, a tip from his report of a year ago when he wrote:

"I am convinced that we should levy higher taxes rather than accept inflation — which is the most unjust and capricious form of taxation."

Clark Stout, Stoutsville, was hired by the Logan Elm Board of Education to survey boundaries of the proposed Logan Elm consolidated High School.

Insurance Men Meet WASHINGTON (AP) — The 11th hemispheric insurance conference will be held in New Orleans, La., next Nov. 12-16.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

A variety of skin conditions are called "ringworm" even though the rash is rarely ring-shaped and never is due to a worm. Moles and fungus are responsible for the skin infections.

The four most common sites of these infections are the feet, scalp, body and nails. By far the most frequent of all of these is ringworm of the feet, called "athlete's foot." These conditions are far more annoying than dangerous, and hardly deserve the terrifying — sounding term Dermatophytosis.

A simple regime is recommended for ringworm of the feet. Cleanliness, drying and applications of salves or powders are prescribed specifically for each individual's condition.

Self-treatment with haphazardly chosen medications only tends to prolong the condition, and even invites additional complicating infection.

Ringworm of the scalp and head is extremely contagious. Infections are rapidly spread from child to child, especially when combs and brushes are used as common property.

The infection produces a small area of temporary baldness by destroying the roots of the hair.

Ringworm of the scalp is a stubborn condition which requires faithful adherence to the doctor's instructions.

Particular care must be devoted to the danger of cross contamination. Dogs and cats frequently have the ringworm fungus and transmit it readily to humans.

It is imperative, therefore, that the pet be treated actively by a veterinarian in order to avoid recurring cycles of this unsightly, annoying condition.

Ringworm of the body is another contagious form of this parasitic infection. Like ringworm of the scalp, this skin illness is more frequent in children than in adults.

Small oval-shaped patches appear on the face, neck and other parts of the body. Areas of pink, scaly "rashes" usually characterize body ringworm.

The most difficult and tenacious form of ringworm is the one that involves the nails. The nails become grooved, pitted and brittle. The discoloration sometimes lasts for months.

Congestion characterizes ringworm. Prevention, therefore, must be the object of personal and medical attention.

A wide group of fungicides is effectively used to kill the fungus. Unless these fungicides are used with discretion and under the supervision of a physician, the skin may be injured and later infected. Overly generous applications of strong linaments may damage the skin and convert this nuisance disease into one of more serious importance.

The diagnosis of ringworm can readily be established by a dermatologist (skin doctor) by skin scrapings and cultures. The exact mold can frequently be found. Medication known to be particularly effective against the causative fungus almost invariably controls the ringworm and prevents its spread.

Teeth should be extracted only as a last resort.

But now the news from Strasbourg is that the Committee on Non-represented Nations is about to be changed into a tabby cat affair which will try to "get along" with the present governments of East European Communist nations. In short, the Council of Europe is following the non-Communist European and North American governments in giving up on possible changes in Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria.

The resolution introduced into the Council of Europe's Consultative Assembly is bland. Referring to Article 43 of the Rules of Procedure, it calls for changing the Committee on Non-Representative Nations into an "Ad Hoc Committee." "Ad Hoc" can mean almost anything, but the word has gone out that the signers of the resolution have acceptance of the Communist order in eastern Europe very much in mind. According to the Free Central European News Agency in London, protests are already pouring into Strasbourg, and an Italian delegate has withdrawn his signature with a statement that he "did not know exactly what he was signing." But with all the western nations in a mood to deal with Moscow and Peking, the protests are not likely to have much effect when the Council votes on the resolution.

The argument is made that, since the unity of the Red world is visibly breaking up, the West might as well make its deals with separate Communist units. Apparently nobody in the various foreign offices of the world has stopped to consider that the Red break-up might go faster and farther if the West were to take a hands-off

Mrs. O'Neal's travelogue was presented following dinner.

"It looked like a tall spike in a field of grass. Then it became exceptionally large — all a great big pulse," he recalled.

Without realizing it, Lockard, then an Army private manning radar equipment on the island of Oahu, was watching the advance of Japanese aircraft toward Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941.

Lockard, now a designer for a Harrisburg manufacturing concern, was conducting a routine weekend radar problem with another private, George Elliott.

He recalled events of that Sunday morning 25 years ago.

"We began plotting the 'echo.' There was progression, a definite path," Lockard said. "Sure, we chewed it over for a while. Then we decided to notify the information center at Ft. Shafter on the other side of the island."

"There were a few minutes while we did the plotting," he said. "Then we made the decision to call the center. We kept a log."

Lockard said he spoke to Lt. Kermit A. Tyler, and told him about "our indication that we had a large flight approaching." He said his information was shrugged off "more or less."

Lockard said he doubt that his advance tip could have made that much difference.

"Not much of the damage could have been avoided,"

Lockard said he spoke to Lt. Kermit A. Tyler, and told him about "our indication that we had a large flight approaching." He said his information was shrugged off "more or less." Lockard said he doubt that his advance tip could have made that much difference.

"Not much of the damage could have been avoided,"

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly in Place

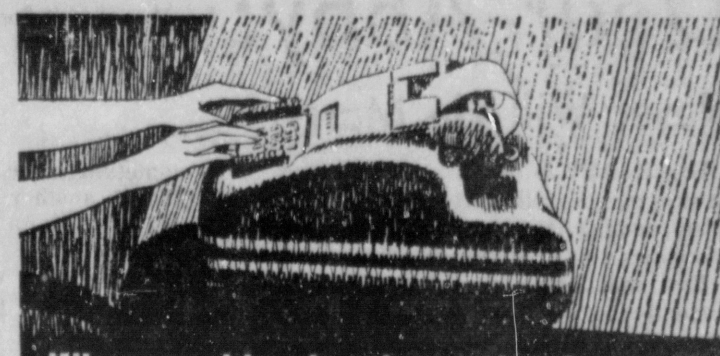

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, goopy, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" breath. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get FASTEETH at all drug counters.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Never Will He Marry —

DEAR ABBY: Hugh and I have gone together for eight years, and I am no closer to marriage now than I was when I first met him. We hit it off perfectly on our first date, and from that moment on I have had no interest in any other man. I am 34, and he is 43. My problem is Hugh was badly hurt by a woman they are now divorced) and he doesn't want to take a chance on marrying again. I know our love will last and we could be happy together, but he is afraid of marriage. How can I convince him that he is wrong?

WANTS HUGH

DEAR WANT: You can't. He has already convinced himself that he doesn't want to marry again. And when a man doesn't

Inez Tucker Presides at FOE Meeting

The Fraternal Order of Eagles Ladies Auxiliary met for a regular meeting with madam president Inez Tucker presiding.

Janet Lee Ritter was nominated and elected to office of conductor. Junior past president Cleo Caudill presided at the installation services.

The Auxiliary will sponsor the Euchre party 8 p. m. Wednesday in the Aerie basement. Proceeds will go to the Christmas candy fund.

Final plans for the annual Christmas Party were made. It will be held 6 p. m. Sunday in the Aerie basement. The next meeting will be 8 p. m. Dec. 15.

All members are urged to attend these sessions.

Mrs. Marion's Class Enjoys Yule Party

An annual Christmas Party was the scene when Mrs. Marion's Sunday School Class of the First Methodist Church met Monday evening for a carry-in dinner.

Tables were decorated with candles and greenery. The evening was spent in the church parlor where a decorated Christmas tree predominated.

Mrs. Garold Crites, president, conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Ruth Stout gave devotions, using various meanings of Christmas and the joys that abound at yuletide. She closed with a prayer.

Mrs. Dwight Steele, Sunshine Chairman, read a letter from Mrs. George Marion, former teacher of the class. Mrs. Dan Eitel, ways and means chairman, gave a report on the pecan sale project.

The business meeting was closed and a gift exchange was enjoyed. Mrs. Crites received a gift from the class.

The next meeting will be Jan. 3 at the home of Mrs. Forrest Brown, 124 N. Scioto St. Hostess will be Mrs. Edgar McClure, Mrs. Thoburn Blaney and Mrs. Lucille Bostwick. Mrs. Bostwick will offer devotions.

Miss Wittich Engaged to Mr. Taddiken

Mrs. J. C. Beery, 137 Pinckney St., is announcing the engagement of her daughter, Miss Lois Ann Wittich, to Mr. E. John Taddiken IV, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Taddiken III of Independence, Kan.

Miss Wittich is a graduate of Capital University, Columbus, and Indiana University at Bloomington, Ind. She is visiting instructor of voice at Kansas State University, Pittsburg, Kan.

Miss Wittich is a member of Phi Beta and Phi Kappa Lambda, national music honorary for business and professional persons.

Mr. Taddiken IV is a graduate of University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kan., and Texas Christian University. He is a member of Delta Sigma Phi social fraternity and Phi Mu Alpha professional musical fraternity.

He also is instructor of Viola at Kansas State College, a member of the Tulsa Philharmonic Orchestra and the Faculty String Quartet.

The wedding will be an event of Dec. 31 in Taos, N. M.

Arthur Goldberg 'Kidnaps' Party Guests Aboard

NEW YORK (AP) — "Oh, by the way, we sail at midnight," said U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Arthur J. Goldberg to his 250 special guests at shipboard party Monday night.

It was a joke, of course, but it made the host the hit of his own affair. The ambassador had invited 250 foreign ministers, heads of U.N. delegations and other notables to the SS Constitution for a champagne party. The liner was tied up at its berth.

Most of the tab was picked up by the American Export Isbrandtsen Lines, the ship's owners.

Among the guests were Nikolai T. Fedorenko, permanent representative of the Soviet Union to the United Nations; retired Gen. and Mrs. James A. Van Fleet; Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, and his wife; and Theodore C. Sorensen, former aide to the late President John F. Kennedy.

She Decides It's Man's Job

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — "I would strongly advise replacing me with a man," says the woman who may be the only one in the country to serve as executive head of a police organization.

Mary Freeman Ross, executive director of the Buckeye State Sheriffs Association, who is stepping down from her post next year after 33 years with the organization, said, "I don't think a man's organization should be headed by a woman."

Mrs. Ross, one of the best known lobbyists in the state legislature, said she joined the organization "at the request of my father to help out a friend. Somehow, I just never left."

Kennedy Clan To Gather For Holidays

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP) — A good part of the Kennedy clan — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy D-N.Y., his family, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, her children, and Patricia Lawford, sister of the senator and the late president — are expected to spend the Christmas holidays skiing at Sun Valley, Idaho.

The senator's office confirmed Monday that he and his wife's family and Mrs. Kennedy and her two children, Caroline and John Jr., have reservations, but said the exact dates are not known.

In New York, it was disclosed that Jacqueline Kennedy appeared at a restaurant for lunch wearing a skirt that ended three inches above mid-knee.

Although the skirt was not quite mini, "it was the shortest we've seen her in," said Dick Atkins, an executive of Women's Wear Daily, a fashion trade publication.

Never Will He Marry —

DEAR ABBY: Hugh and I have gone together for eight years, and I am no closer to marriage now than I was when I first met him. We hit it off perfectly on our first date, and from that moment on I have had no interest in any other man. I am 34, and he is 43.

My problem is Hugh was badly hurt by a woman that he does not want to take a chance on marrying again. I know our love will last and we could be happy together, but he is afraid of marriage. How can I convince him that he is wrong?

WANTS HUGH
DEAR WANT: You can't. He has already convinced himself that he doesn't want to marry again. And when a man doesn't want to do something, one excuse is as good as another.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old male hairdresser who has shared an apartment with a co-worker for two years. Last Sunday I woke up to find that my roommate had brought home a young divorcee and her 3-year-old child, and all three of them were sleeping in the living room. My roommate plans on marrying her next week, and can't see why we can't all live together.

My half of the furnishing represents $3,000. I can't move out and take my half with me.

(How do you divide carpeting, draperies, and pairs of tables, lamps, a dinette set, etc.?) He hasn't the cash to buy me out, and I certainly don't want to stay here under these circumstances. What do I do now?

STUCK
DEAR STUCK: If your roommate won't move out with his newly acquired family, then it's your move. Take as much of your "half" of the furnishings as possible, and let him pay you in monthly installments for the balance.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's father has been seen in broad daylight necking with girls who were young enough to be his granddaughters. He lives with us because he cannot hold a steady job.

We have been told by our neighbors, who would have no reason to lie, that my father-in-law brings young girls into the house while we are away. We have talked to him several times about this, but he denies it.

Some of our neighbors will let their children associate with ours because of the bad reputation my father-in-law has created. Will you please tell us what to do?

AT A LOSS
DEAR AT: Your father-in-law is a sick man. Do not leave him alone in your home any more! Consult your family physician and ask for his recommendation. Thus far it is only a medical problem, but unless it is corrected at once, it could be a legal one with serious, messy repercussions.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MARGARET: Don't waste too much time on a man who persistently "jabs" you with unkind remarks. The grave of love is prepared with little digs.

NEW YORK (AP) — Lew Alcindor's sensational debut as a college pivotman has given powerful UCLA an early stranglehold in The Associated Press basketball ratings.

Stonerock Leads SCO Scoring Race

Circleville's Tim Stonerock is off to a big lead in the South Central Ohio League basketball scoring race.

Starting his third season with the CHS varsity squad, Stonerock has hit 36 field goals and 33 foul shots for 105 points in four games.

His closest rival at present is Bob Bistley, Greenfield McClain's outstanding junior center. He has 66 points in four games, the result of 25 field goals and 18 foul shots.

Another Greenfield player, Jim Taylor, is in third place with 54 points. Jim Creamer of Miami Trace with 50 points is fourth, along with Jim Kensing-er of Greenfield.

THE ONLY other Tiger in the top ten scorers is Danny Spekman with a 44-point total. Here are the SCO top scorers:

Jayhawks Maul Buckeyes, 94-70

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Powerhouse Kansas was simply too big for Ohio State, while Purdue was little but not too little and late but not too late to take Ohio University in Monday night basketball action.

The unbeaten Jayhawks, prime prospects to repeat as Big Eight champions, swamped the Buckeyes 94-70 and the Boilermakers rallied to trip the Bobcats 74-71 as Ohio teams had a bad time of it in interstate action.

Cleveland State, like Ohio State, saw a 2-0 record go by the boards when the Vikings lost at Eastern Illinois 97-83. And Central State, a mere shadow of its former self, fell to Fairmont State on the West Virginians' court, 68-59.

Youngstown routed Walsh 111-51 and Franklin of Columbus upset Kentucky State 94-82 in the other games.

Kansas, winning its third straight in a bid for national recognition, dominated Ohio State behind big Ron Franz and Rodger Bohnenstiel and fancy backliner Jo Jo White.

Franz scored 19 points, Bohnenstiel 15, White 23 while helping the Jayhawks clean the backboards (48 rebounds to 26).

It was close for 11:10 of action, with OSU down only 26-23, but Kansas ran it to 50-34 at the half and 81-51 with 9:30 to go, then cleared its bench.

Sophomore Jeff Miller of Lima salvaged individual scoring honors with 26 Buckeye points. Coach Fred Taylor's team played without regular guard Al Rowley, confined to his motel room with flu.

Ohio U., playing at home, spotted its Big Ten opponent a 46-38 bulge with 15 minutes to go, then spurred ahead 65-59 and finally 71-67 with only 1:18 left.

But Purdue, giving away inches in the height department, came back. Herman Gilliam's driving basket cut the deficit to two points, then 5-foot-10 Bill Keller stole the ball from Bobcat Mike Hammond and converted a three-point play with 23 seconds to go. Henry Eber-shoff's two free throws seconds later — after Hammond muffed a throw-in from out-of-bounds to give Purdue possession — clinched it.

Ohio sophomore Gerry McKee with 23 points, 6-9 John Schroeder with 17 points and 21 rebound — the 'Cats led in retrieves 67 to 31 — and Hammond with 16 kept their team in contention. Fouls made the difference as Purdue sank 26 of 32 to Ohio's 13 of 20.

Chet Iery Jr., a 1965 graduate of Circleville High School where he starred on the South Central Ohio League basketball championship team, is a member of the Franklin University cage team in Columbus.

Iery, a sophomore, was named the team's most improved player last year. Franklin University has a 2-0 record this season, owning wins over Lockbourne and Kentucky State University.

Both are undefeated. With only two games remaining after this week's action, the victor will be favored to win the Junior high cage crown.

Ashville is the defending league champion. Also undefeated in the county league is Scioto Twp. The Buffalos will host the Jackson Twp. Wildcats Wednesday. Jackson has won one game in four starts.

Saltcreek travels to Monroe and Washington is at Pickaway to round out tomorrow's pace action on the Junior high level.

Here are the present league standings:

DeWitt Bows Out as Owner-President

Group of Local Investors Purchases Cincinnati Reds

By JAAN KANGILASKI
CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — William Orville DeWitt, the only general manager ever to have had pennant winners in both major leagues, has bowed out as owner-president of the Cincinnati Reds in favor of a group of local investors.

Francis L. Dale, publisher of the Cincinnati Enquirer, announced Monday night his group has bought all the baseball team's stock for $7 million and will sign a 40-year lease with the city to help Cincinnati build a new riverfront stadium.

DeWitt, a baseball veteran who four years ago bought the Reds for a reported $4.6 million will continue running the club until the deal is approved by the National League, probably some time in January. Manager Dave Bristol and the Reds' front office staff also will continue in their jobs.

The new manager will have a "pretty free hand," Dale said.

"Our interest is to keep the Reds in Cincinnati and make sure that city gets the new riverfront stadium," Dale said.

The $43-million stadium would serve as home for both the Reds and a professional football team the city hopes to get, but at present the financing is still unsettled.

Most Reds fans welcomed the change of ownership. The Reds won a pennant in their first year under DeWitt, but the portly executive's popularity plunged this year.

The Reds ended up on the short end of an off-season trade that sent slugging star Frank Robinson to Baltimore in return for pitchers Milt Pappas and Jack Baldschun and rookie outfielder Dick Simpson. None of them helped the Reds much and the team wound up in seventh place while Robinson won the American League batting crown and led the Orioles to a world championship.

DeWitt had come to Cincinnati as general manager on Nov. 2, 1960. He took over the club's operations after industrialist-owner Powell Crosley Jr.'s death in March 1961. On April 5, 1962, DeWitt bought the Reds from a charitable trust set up under the industrialist's will.

Illinois Upsets Kentucky, 98-97

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The shrill tones of high pitched whistles cut through the din at Kentucky's field house and left Coach Adolph Rupp with his fingers in his ears.

"I never saw anything like it in my life," said Rupp, after four Wildcats had fouled out and Illinois had defeated third-ranked Kentucky 98-97 in overtime Monday night.

Rupp, who is 65 and has seen plenty in his 37 years at Kentucky, watched Pat Riley pick up three personal fouls inside of 32 seconds of the first half and finally foul out with almost 12 minutes left to play.

"I was almost getting disgusted with the refereeing," The Baron told newsmen after the game. "In the scrambles, we got all the fouls."

Kentucky never led and Ron Dunlap dropped in the two free throws with 2:15 left in the overtime that put Illinois on top to stay.

Rich Jones led Illinois with 32 points and Deon Flessner had 23. All American Louie Dampier hit 40 for the Wildcats, Thad Jaracz scored 22 and Riley had 15 before fouling out.

In another major upset, Michigan topped seventh-ranked Houston 86-75 at Ann Arbor.

A year ago it would have been an upset if the Wolverines hadn't taken Houston but that was when Cazzie Russell was still around. Russell has graduated and it looked like a long season when Michigan dropped its first two games. But against a much taller Houston club, Michigan got 23 points from Dennis Stewart, a sophomore, and won going away.

"It's fun to win one," said Coach Dave Strack, who had plenty of practice in the Russell years. "This has got to make them think that they can play with a lot of ball clubs."

In other major games, Michigan State ripped South Dakota 81-54, Indiana defeated Missouri 77-65, Iowa State routed Minnesota 87-69, Alabama topped Louisiana Tech 84-73, Purdue slipped past Ohio University 74-71 and Kansas mauled Ohio State 94-70.

Also, Vanderbilt thumped Southwestern Louisiana 101-63, Creighton nipped Iowa 69-63, Northwestern hammered Ball State 120-83 and Florida State downed Rice 76-72.

Elsewhere, it was Oklahoma State 72, South Dakota State 69; Memphis State 66, Texas A&M 56; Mississippi 82, Texas 80; William and Mary 72, Pittsburgh 68; and California 108, Oklahoma 81.

Irish Accept No. 1 Rating As 'Deserved'

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Coach Ara Parseghian and the student body took the fact that Notre Dame was named the nation's national collegiate football champions in stride Monday night.

The student body had little chance to demonstrate.

"I guess the students were studying and not listening to their radios," said a campus spokesman. "They'll know all about it Tuesday when the Chicago morning papers hit the campus."

"But, let's face it. They expected to be No. 1."

Parseghian, who was informed of the vote before leaving for Chicago and the annual Knute Rockne Memorial Awards Dinner, said he was "absolutely delighted."

In the preseason poll, Notre Dame was ranked sixth with Michigan State No. 1. The Irish kept edging up in the first four weeks with victories over Purdue, Northwestern and Army.

When Notre Dame hammered North Carolina 32-0 while Michigan State was struggling to an 11-8 victory over Ohio State, the Irish took the top rung and remained there although Notre Dame and Michigan State played to a 10-10 tie late in the campaign.

Notre Dame had an opportunity to gamble for a last ditch victory against Michigan State but the Irish elected to run out the clock.

The move became a controversial high point of the season but Parseghian, his forces depleted by injuries, said his men had played great football for 59½ minutes and he wasn't going to gamble and lose in the final seconds of the game.

The Irish eliminated all doubt of their No. 1 status when they clobbered Rose Bowl bound Southern California 51-0 in the final game of the season.

Notre Dame finished up in the final poll with 41 first place votes and 506 points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis.

Michigan State with eight first place votes was second with 471 points followed by Alabama, the only undefeated, untied team in the nation, with seven first place votes and 428 points.

Georgia finished fourth with 332 points followed by UCLA with 291, Nebraska with 224, Purdue 193, Georgia Tech 163, Miami, Fla., 76 and Southern Methodist 62.

Santa and the Giant Fighter

By Lucrece Beale

Synopsis: A certain small boy talks of nothing but fighting giants. Sent to bed without supper he is awakened by a tapping at his closet door.

CHAPTER TWO OFF TO SANTA LAND

William Henry Christopher Preserver threw open the closet door. He waved his wooden sword and galled fiercely.

"Come out, giant! I'm not afraid of you!"

Instead of a giant, out came a creature small as a baby's fist. He was round and fat and he walked with a bounce like a rubber ball.

"I'm not a giant," snapped the creature bouncing up on the boy's foot. "I'm a elfite."

"W-what is an elfite?" stammered William Henry Christopher.

"An elfite is a very small elf, silly. If you paid attention in school and studied your lessons you might learn such things."

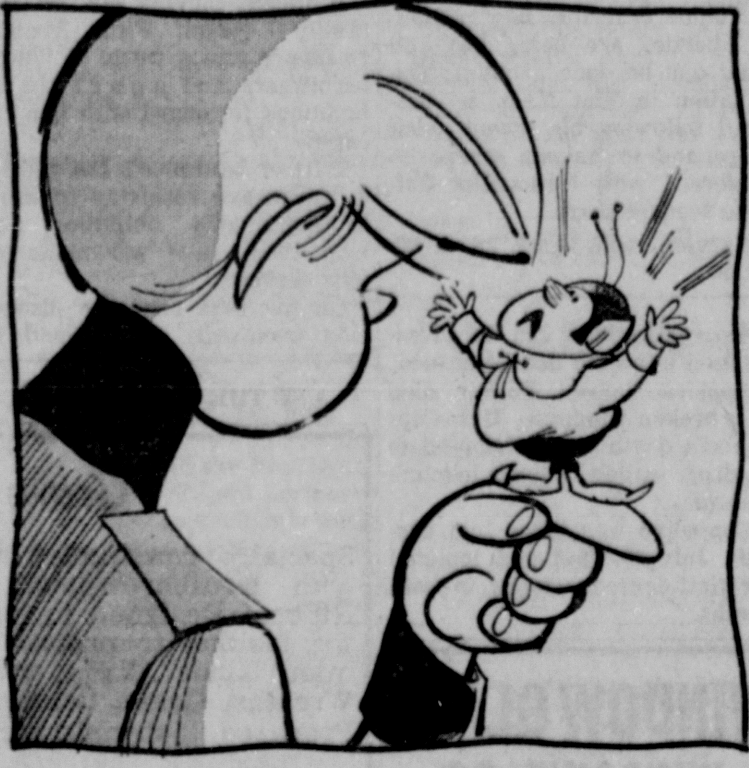

"I don't like school," said the boy. "I'm a giant fighter."

"Well," said the elfite, "I know the biggest, meanest giant in the whole world and unless someone kills that giant he is going to destroy us all."

The boy's eyes grew big and round. "W-who is he?" he quavered.

"He is called Goko. Five days ago he captured the Fairy Queen. He means to marry her on Christmas Day. Then he will own her magic and be King of all Fairyland and she, poor creature, will be his prisoner forever. And that isn't all. Already he has captured the moon!"

means to take down the sun and stars, too. He doesn't like things higher than he, you see. And stars, too. He doesn't like things higher than he, you see. And when Santa and his reindeer fly on Christmas eve Goko has vowed to bring them down, too. And that, my boy, will be the end!"

"But, why doesn't Santa do something?"

"He has tried. He turned himself into a mouse and visited the Fairy Queen. He hoped to gnaw away her ropes and then himself destroy the giant. But the Queen said it would take more than fairy magic to save them."

"What then? What would it take?"

"The Queen said if there were a real live boy on earth who believed in giants and fairies and such then he might save them."

"I believe in giants!" cried William Henry Christopher.

"I know," said the elfite. "That is why I have come to you."

"Do-do you think I could slay Goko?"

"What do you think?" asked the elfite.

The boy sighed. What if he tried and failed? What would happen to Santa and the Fairy Queen and to moon and everything then? Giant killing was an awful responsibility.

But where else would the elfite find a boy who ever believed in giants? He himself was the only one he knew of. So it was up to him.

"I can do it," he said, trying to keep his voice steady.

He put on his straps, stuck his sword in his belt and climbed half way out the window. The elfite bounced up beside him and said gravely, "From now on you'll be known as Billy the Giant Fighter!"

"Billy the Giant Fighter," the boy whispered to himself. It had a strong and sturdy sound. He began to feel braver.

He dropped out of the window and the elfite bounced down beside him.

"Where to?" asked Billy as they started away.

"To Santa Land," said the elfite. "Santa will show you the way."

Illinois Upsets Kentucky, 98-97

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The shrill tones of the high pitched whistles cut through the din at Kentucky's field house and left Coach Adolph Rupp with his fingers in his ears.

"I never saw anything like it in my life," said Rupp, after four Wildcats had fouled out and Illinois had defeated third-ranked Kentucky 98-97 in overtime Monday night.

Rupp, who is 65 and has seen plenty in his 37 years at Kentucky, watched Pat Riley pick up three personal fouls inside of 32 seconds of the first half and finally foul out with almost 12 minutes left to play.

"I was almost getting disgusted with the refereeing," The Baron told newsmen after the game. "In the scrambles, we got all the fouls."

Kentucky never led and Ron Dunlap dropped in the two free throws with 2:15 left in the overtime that put Illinois on top to stay.

Rich Jones led Illinois with 32 points and Deon Flessner had 23. All American Louie Dampier hit 40 for the Wildcats, Thad Jaracz scored 22 and Riley had 15 before fouling out.

In another major upset, Michigan topped seventh-ranked Houston 86-75 at Ann Arbor.

A year ago it would have been an upset if the Wolverines hadn't taken Houston but that was when Cazzie Russell was still around. Russell has graduated and it looked like a long season when Michigan dropped its first two games. But against a much taller Houston club, Michigan got 23 points from Dennis Stewart, a sophomore, and won going away.

"It's fun to win one," said Coach Dave Strack, who had plenty of practice in the Russell years. "This has got to make them think that they can play with a lot of ball clubs."

In other major games, Michigan State ripped South Dakota 81-54, Indiana defeated Missouri 77-65, Iowa State routed Minnesota 87-69, Alabama topped Louisiana Tech 84-73, Purdue slipped past Ohio University 74-71 and Kansas mauled Ohio State 94-70.

Also, Vanderbilt thumped Southwestern Louisiana 101-63, Creighton nipped Iowa 69-63, Northwestern hammered Ball State 120-83 and Florida State downed Rice 76-72.

Elsewhere, it was Oklahoma State 72, South Dakota State 69; Memphis State 66, Texas A&M 56; Mississippi 82, Texas 80; William and Mary 72, Pittsburgh 68; and California 108, Oklahoma 81.

Irish Accept No. 1 Rating As 'Deserved'

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Coach Ara Parseghian and the student body took the fact that Notre Dame was named the nation's national collegiate football champions in stride Monday night.

The student body had little chance to demonstrate. "I guess the students were studying and not listening to their radios," said a campus spokesman. "They'll know all about it Tuesday when the Chicago morning papers hit the campus."

"But, let's face it. They expected to be No. 1." Parseghian, who was informed of the vote before leaving for Chicago and the annual Knute Rockne Memorial Awards Dinner, said he was "absolutely delighted."

In the preseason poll, Notre Dame was ranked sixth with Michigan State No. 1. The Irish kept edging up in the first four weeks with victories over Purdue, Northwestern and Army.

When Notre Dame hammered North Carolina 32-0 while Michigan State was struggling to an 11-8 victory over Ohio State, the Irish took the top rung and remained there although Notre Dame and Michigan State played to a 10-10 tie late in the campaign.

Notre Dame had an opportunity to gamble for a last ditch victory against Michigan State but the Irish elected to run out the clock.

The move became a controversial high point of the season but Parseghian, his forces depleted by injuries, said his men had played great football for 39½ minutes and he wasn't going to gamble and lose in the final seconds of the game.

The Irish eliminated all doubt of their No. 1 status when they clobbered Rose Bowl bound Southern California 51-0 in the final game of the season.

Notre Dame finished up in the final poll with 41 first place votes and 506 points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis.

Michigan State with eight first place votes was second with 471 points followed by Alabama, the only undefeated, untied team in the nation, with seven first place votes and 428 points.

Georgia finished fourth with 332 points followed by UCLA with 291, Nebraska with 224, Purdue 193, Georgia Tech 165, Miami, Fla., 76 and Southern Methodist 62.

Santa and the Giant Fighter

By Lucrece Beale

Synopsis: A certain small boy talks of nothing but fighting giants. Sent to bed without supper he is awakened by a tapping at his closet door.

CHAPTER TWO OFF TO SANTA LAND

William Henry Christopher Preserve threw open the closet door. He waved his wooden sword and called fiercely: "Come out, giant! I'm not afraid of you!"

Instead of a giant, out came a creature small as a baby's fist. He was round and fat and he walked with a bounce like a rubber ball.

"I'm not a giant," snapped the creature bouncing up on the boy's foot. "I'm a elfite."

"W. what is an elfite?" stammered William Henry Christopher.

"An elfite is a very small elf, silly. If you paid attention in school and studied your lessons you might learn such things."

"I don't like school," said the boy. "I'm a giant fighter."

"Well," said the elfite, "I know the biggest, meanest giant in the whole world and unless someone kills that giant he is going to destroy us all."

The boy's eyes grew big and round. "W - who is he?" he quavered.

"He is called Goko. Five days ago he captured the Fairy Queen. He means to marry her on Christmas Day. Then he will own her magic and be King of all Fairyland and she, poor creature, will be his prisoner forever. And that isn't all. Already he has captured the moon!"

"But, why doesn't Santa do something?"

"He has tried. He turned himself into a mouse and visited the Fairy Queen. He hoped to gnaw away her ropes and then himself destroy the giant. But the Queen said it would take more than fairy magic to save them."

"What then? What would it take?"

"I believe in giants!" cried William Henry Christopher.

"I know," said the elfite. "That is why I have come to you."

"Do—do you think I could slay Goko?"

"What do you think?" asked the elfite.

The boy sighed. What if he tried and failed? What would happen to Santa and the Fairy Queen and to moon and everything? Giant killing was an awful responsibility.

But where else would the elfite find a boy who ever believed in giants? He himself was the only one he knew of. So it was up to him.

WORLD RENOWNED SCENE — Here is a scene from "The Christmas Story" which will be presented Sunday at Logan Elm High School. Performed in pageantry and with live voices, the eternal moment will be staged by the Burgess Avenue EUB Church in Columbus under sponsorship of EUB Churches in the Circleville area. The famous scene here shows Mrs. James Pillsbury as Mary and Tom Baughman as Joseph as they contemplate the Babe in the manger. The performance will start at 7:30 p. m., with the public invited. No admission will be charged, but a free-will offering will be received.

Ohio Sheriffs Have To Work in Crumbling, Ancient Jails

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When Franklin County jail prisoners rioted twice within four months this year, Sheriff Stacy Hall blamed it on his antiquated 85-year-old jail.

Narrow passage of a $4 million tax levy has since put a new jail in sight for Hall, but the 19th Century stone structure is only one of many outdated jails making Ohio sheriffs unhappy.

The Franklin County jail suffers from inadequate sanitation facilities and a water system that needs help to reach the third floor. Built to hold 135 prisoners, it now holds an average of 235, "and that's when we start hanging them on hooks," Hall says.

When overcrowding is especially bad, Hall says only felony prisoners are brought in and first offenders are released to make room on the floor for newcomers.

Stacy's jail is a credit to mine, and mine isn't a credit to anything," says Lawrence County Sheriff Carl E. Rose, veteran of 15 jailbreaks in 14 years as sheriff.

Latest to occur was only last Friday when three prisoners shot their way out of the old structure, killing Police Chief Walter E. Markel and wounding another officer seriously. One of the prisoners also died in the gunfire.

"When you can reach down and pick up part of the steel floor with your hand, I'd say you can blame the poor security on the condition of the jail," Rose said, adding:

"You can get anything you want into my jail because I don't have a fence around it," he says. "And with the limited force we have, we just can't watch it close enough."

Lawrence County's jail in Ironton was built 100 years ago to house 55. It now holds about 25, so overcrowding, at least, isn't a problem. Lorain County, however, jams about 85 into an 1893 jail built for 50.

"It's a constant morale problem," says Sheriff Vernon M. Smith, who watched hopes for a new jail go down the drain with a $7 million levy earlier this month. "The bigger ones get the bends. We just shove them through the doors."

Each cell area in Smith's jail has a toilet and a wash basin. "Certainly we're not unsanitary, but when you jam four or five people in one cell . . ."

Smith at least has doors to "shove" prisoners through. In Perry County's 35-man jail, only the cell blocks, not the cells, have them.

"They may have been some doors at one time," Sheriff Tom Wilson says, "but there aren't any now."

Like many other sheriffs in less populous counties, Wilson's home is linked to the jail and "you use the same kitchen for the prisoners that you use for yourself."

And like many other small county jails, Wilson's isn't overcrowded. It usually holds about eight prisoners, cutting down on security problems. "But if we had prisoners like they have at some other places it could be a real problem," Wilson says.

The lack of money that keeps old jails in operation causes other problems as well. In Lucas County, defeat of a 1.25 mill levy last year cost Sheriff William Hirsch not only a new jail, but money to pay his deputies. He now has 18 patrolmen, eight men short.

Few counties have special facilities for juvenile prisoners. Some, like Lorain, try to put juvenile offenders in a separate section. Others, like Franklin, must often mix them in with older prisoners.

Ohio has no way of assuring that outdated jails will be replaced. There is no state inspector. Grand juries make ritual inspections and often find fault, but action on their recommendations can be a long time coming.

Criticism of the Franklin County jail began at least 11 years ago when county commissioners returned unhappily from a tour of the three-story stone structure.

"Three years later, the grand jury called the jail's replacement 'imperative.' A year later, 1959, another set of grand jurors called it "disgraceful." Later that same year, authorities reported 13 fire hazards in the building.

Two months before the first riot this year, still another set of jurors complained that the jail was overcrowded and antiquated. A month before the next riot, they said a new jail was needed.

Once the grand jurors are convinced, the problem of selling a new jail to voters remains. "When they spend a dollar, they like to know where it's going," Hall says. And, he adds, many voters suffer from "a lack of being informed and a lack of interest."

Says Rose, who recently had to have the bars of his jail specially treated so prisoners couldn't saw through them: "No one's getting them who doesn't need them."

Gans Is Named President Of First National Bank

Frank A. Gans of Cambridge, O., has been named president and chief executive officer of the First National Bank, effective Jan. 1.

Gans' appointment was announced today by the bank's board of directors. He will succeed George P. Foresman who resigned as president, effective Jan. 1.

Foresman, who has been with First National since 1936, will continue as chairman of the board after Jan. 1. The new president also will be a member of the board of directors.

Foresman said he requested retirement due to his advanced years and his desire to be relieved from the heavy duties demanded of a bank president.

Gans, 45, is presently serving as vice president of The First National Bank of Cambridge. A native of Pennsylvania, he was graduated from high school at Weston, W. Va., received his bachelor of science degree from Indiana University and attended the Graduate School of Banking at Madison, Wis.

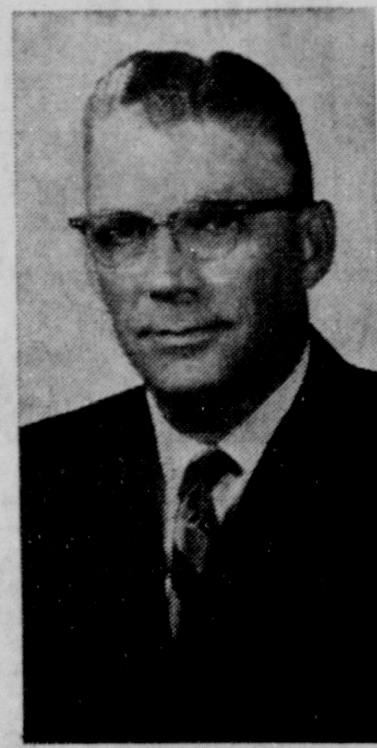

HE HAS had a full time career in banking since 1948, working in all phases of bank operations. He has served in officer capacities as assistant cashier and vice president. He is a member of the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Cambridge.

Active in Community affairs, he is a member of the board of directors and treasurer of the Cambridge Area Chamber of Commerce, a member of Cambridge Kiwanis Club currently serving on the board of directors, a member of the board of directors and treasurer of Cambridge Nursery School and serves on the advisory board of directors of the Salvation Army.

Gans has also worked with the United Fund in various capacities and in 1966 served as general campaign chairman. He is presently a member of the board of Trustees of his local organization.

He also is a member of the executive council of Group 7 of the Ohio Bankers Assn.

Gans, with his wife Mary, and their four children, Elizabeth, 20, Robbie, 11 and twins Tom and Mary 7, expects to move to Circleville in the near future.

Church Assembly Tries To Unite Opposing Camps

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sharp cleavage was pointed up today among American Christians over evangelistic methods, but a surprise move appeared in the making to get the two opposing camps to pull together.

The overtures for making common cause — even though advocates of the old and new evangelism differed markedly — developed at a session of the National Council of Churches' General Assembly.

Baptist evangelist Billy Graham sparked the outpouring of pleas for an alliance between conservative evangelicals, who stress conversion by preaching, and a modern school, stressing persuasion by social action.

Some conservative evangelicals including many small but vigorous missionary-minded denominations, make up the largest bloc outside the National Council although many of them are in churches belonging to it.

The council has 30 member denominations — most of the country's largest Protestant and Orthodox bodies with a total of 14 million believers. There are an estimated 20 million conservative evangelicals outside the council. About half of them are Southern Baptists.

They recently held a world congress no evangelism in Berlin, and a series of reports on that meeting — including one from Graham — touched off the appeals Monday night for the two factions to join forces, despite their differences.

That key differences exist was emphasized earlier at a news conference.

"There is a real clash, not just a fake war," said the Rev. Colin Williams, a Methodist and the council's evangelism secretary, who maintained that effective evangelism must be linked with work to improve social conditions.

Later in a special session on the subject, Graham also cited the differing views, but said both approaches had their uses.

"There are two needs," he said, "a conversion from the world to Christ and second, a conversion from Christ back to the world, the fruit of which is neighbor love expressed in social service."

"There is a great segment in the church that believes the two go hand in hand and I'm one of them."

Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, president of the University of Oregon and former U. S. secretary of health, education and welfare, was expected to be elected president of the council today.

A Methodist, he would succeed Evangelical United Brethren Bishop Reuben H. Mueller of Indianapolis.

Bailey May Ask New Site For Trial

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — Defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey says he may try to have Dr. Carl Coppolino's murder trial shifted to another locale on the grounds that pretrial news reports may have affected prospective jurors.

Coppolino, 34, went on trial Monday for first-degree murder in the 1963 death of retired Army Lt. Col. William E. Farber, a neighbor. The state charges Farber was strangled.

In his opening remarks, Bailey told Superior Court Judge Elvin R. Simmill he would reserve until today the right to request a change of venue or a postponement of the proceedings.

Monmouth County prosecutor Vincent Keuper said in court he would demand death in the electric chair for the dark-haired anesthesiologist, hypnotist and author.

Opposing sides then settled down to the selection of a 14-member jury, two of whom will serve as alternates.

Only one juror was picked from the first eight examined Monday. He was James E. Jeram Jr., a married employee of an ice cream manufacturer.

Farber, a 50-year-old retired artillery officer, and his wife, Marjorie, lived diagonally across the street from Coppolino and his first wife, Carmela, 32, in the tree-shaded Fox Run section of Middletown.

The colonel's sudden death July 30, 1963, was attributed to heart attack according to a death certificate signed by Mrs. Coppolino. Both Coppolinos held medical doctors' degrees although neither practiced medicine at the time of Farber's death.

Early in 1965, Coppolino and his wife moved to Sarasota, Fla. Mrs. Farber followed four months later and took a house next door.

On Aug. 28, 1965, Carmela Coppolino died suddenly of what was listed as a heart seizure. Less than six weeks later Coppolino married Mary Gibson, an attractive 39-year-old divorcee, and moved into her luxurious waterfront home.

Mrs. Farber then went to

Rockefeller Settles Into Life in Harlem

NEW YORK (AP) — Laurance Rockefeller took a seat in the steamy lunchroom in East Harlem's slums and ordered a 45-cent Whopperburger and a soda.

Later, he returned to his tenement over Juanita's beauty salon where he will live among the Puerto Ricans in the building.

For the next year, life in the slums will be the life of the 22-year-old son of one of the world's wealthiest families.

He'll work seven days a week for $50 a month plus room and board and $2.50 a day pocket money because, as he puts it, "I want to help others help themselves."

Rockefeller is the son of Laurance S. Rockefeller, a noted conservationist, and the nephew of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. He was graduated from Harvard last June and spent the summer flying around the world in his private plane.

Young Rockefeller was among 10 persons from across the country who began an eight-week training program Monday to qualify for VISTA, which stands for Volunteers in Service to America.

It meant moving out of the family's swank Fifth Avenue residence into a world of Whopperburgers and apartment buildings festooned with fire escapes.

Part of Laurance's job will be to encourage residents to work in community activities and help them take advantage of city services.

On his first day, the discussion eventually got around to money and Laurance told news-men: "As you might know, I have money of my own. But I don't plan to touch it while I'm working here. I don't see why $50 a month shouldn't be enough with rent and food taken care of."

The recruits also included Tweed Roosevelt, 24-year-old great-grandson of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Rockefeller summed up his aspirations:

"Having an independent income gives me more freedom over the long span to devote myself to public service activities which I find more challenging than anything else."

"The type of (block) project struck me. You're living on the block and dealing with the whole problem of poverty. All the problems seem to go back to a common level — fear and desperation and hopelessness."

WORLD RENOWNED SCENE — Here is a scene from "The Christmas Story" which will be presented Sunday at Logan Elm High School. Performed in pageantry and with live voices, the eternal moment will be staged by the Burgess Avenue EUB Church in Columbus under sponsorship of EUB Churches in the Circleville area. The famous scene here shows Mrs. James Pillsbury as Mary and Tom Baughman as Joseph as they contemplate the Babe in the manger. The performance will start at 7:30 p. m., with the public invited. No admission will be charged, but a free-will offering will be received.

Ohio Sheriffs Have To Work in Crumbling, Ancient Jails

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When Franklin County jail prisoners rioted twice within four months this year, Sheriff Stacy Hall blamed it on his antiquated 85-year-old jail.

Narrow passage of a $4 million tax levy has since put a new jail in sight for Hall, but the 19th Century stone structure is only one of many outdated jails making Ohio sheriffs unhappy.

The Franklin County jail suffers from inadequate sanitation facilities and a water system that needs help to reach the third floor. Built to hold 135 prisoners, it now holds an average of 235, "and that's when we start hanging them on hooks," Hall says.

When overcrowding is especially bad, Hall says only felony prisoners are brought in and first offenders are released to make room on the floor for newcomers.

Stacy's jail is a credit to mine, and mine isn't a credit to anything," says Lawrence County Sheriff Carl E. Rose, veteran of 15 jailbreaks in 14 years as sheriff.

Latest to occur was only last Friday when three prisoners shot their way out of the old structure, killing Police Chief Walter E. Markel and wounding another officer seriously. One of the prisoners also died in the gunfire.

"When you can reach down and pick up part of the steel floor with your hand, I'd say you can blame the poor security on the condition of the jail," Rose said, adding:

"You can get anything you want into my jail because I don't have a fence around it," he says. "And with the limited force we have, we just can't watch it close enough."

Lawrence County's jail in Ironton was built 100 years ago to house 55. It now holds about 25, so overcrowding, at least, isn't a problem. Lorain County, however, jams about 85 into an 1893 jail built for 50.

"It's a constant morale problem," says Sheriff Vernon M. Smith, who watched hopes for a new jail go down the drain with a $7 million levy earlier this month. "The bigger ones get the bends. We just shove them through the doors."

Each cell area in Smith's jail has a toilet and a wash basin. "Certainly we're not unsanitary, but when you jam four or five people in one cell . . ."

Smith at least has doors to "shove" prisoners through. In Perry County's 35-man jail, only the cell blocks, not the cells, have them.

"They may have been some doors at one time," Sheriff Tom Wilson says, "but there aren't any now."

Like many other sheriffs in less populous counties, Wilson's home is linked to the jail and "you use the same kitchen for the prisoners that you use for yourself."

And like many other small county jails, Wilson's isn't overcrowded. It usually holds about eight prisoners, cutting down on security problems. "But if we had prisoners like they have at some other places it could be a real problem," Wilson says.

The lack of money that keeps old jails in operation causes other problems as well.

In Lucas County, defeat of a 1.25 mill levy last year cost Sheriff William Hirsch not only a new jail, but money to pay his deputies. He now has 18 patrolmen, eight men short.

Few counties have special facilities for juvenile prisoners. Some, like Lorain, try to put juvenile offenders in a separate section. Others, like Franklin, must often mix them in with older prisoners.

Ohio has no way of assuring that outdated jails will be replaced. There is no state inspector. Grand juries make ritual inspections and often find fault, but action on their recommendations can be a long time coming.

Criticism of the Franklin County jail began at least 11 years ago when county commissioners returned unhappily from a tour of the three-story stone structure.

"Three years later, the grand jury called the jail's replacement 'imperative.' A year later, 1959, another set of grand jurors called it "disgraceful." Later that same year, authorities reported 13 fire hazards in the building.

Two months before the first riot this year, still another set of jurors complained that the jail was overcrowded and antiquated. A month before the next riot, they said a new jail was needed.

Once the grand jurors are convinced, the problem of selling a new jail to voters remains. "When they spend a dollar, they like to know where it's going," Hall says. And, he adds, many voters suffer from "a lack of being informed and a lack of interest."

Says Rose, who recently had to have the bars of his jail specially treated so prisoners couldn't saw through them: "No one's getting them who doesn't need them."

Gans Is Named President Of First National Bank

Frank A. Gans of Cambridge, O., has been named president and chief executive officer of the First National Bank, effective Jan. 1.

Gans' appointment was announced today by the bank's board of directors. He will succeed George P. Foresman who resigned as president, effective Jan. 1.

Foresman, who has been with First National since 1936, will continue as chairman of the board after Jan. 1. The new president also will be a member of the board of directors.

Foresman said he requested retirement due to his advanced years and his desire to be relieved from the heavy duties demanded of a bank president.

Gans, 45, is presently serving as vice president of The First National Bank of Cambridge, a native of Pennsylvania, he was graduated from high school at Weston, W. Va., received his bachelor of science degree from Indiana University and attended the Graduate School of Banking at Madison, Wis.

HE HAS had a full time career in banking since 1948, working in all phases of bank operations. He has served in officer capacities as assistant cashier and vice president. He is a member of the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Cambridge.

Active in Community affairs, he is a member of the board of directors and treasurer of the Cambridge Area Chamber of Commerce, a member of Cambridge Kiwanis Club currently serving on the board of directors, a member of the board of directors and treasurer of Cambridge Nursery School and serves on the advisory board of directors of the Salvation Army.

Gans has also worked with the United Fund in various capacities and in 1966 served as general campaign chairman. He is presently a member of the board of Trustees of his local organization.

He also is a member of the executive council of Group 7 of the Ohio Bankers Assn.

Gans, with his wife Mary, and their four children, Elizabeth, 20, Robbie, 11 and twins Tom and Mary 7, expects to move to Circleville in the near future.

Bailey May Ask New Site For Trial

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — Defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey says he may try to have Dr. Carl Coppolino's murder trial shifted to another locale on the grounds that pretrial news reports may have affected prospective jurors.

Coppolino, 34, went on trial Monday for first-degree murder in the 1963 death of retired Army Lt. Col. William E. Farber, a neighbor. The state charges Farber was strangled.

In his opening remarks, Bailey told Superior Court Judge Elvin R. Simmill he would reserve until today the right to request a change of venue or a postponement of the proceedings.

Monmouth County prosecutor Vincent Keuper said in court he would demand death in the electric chair for the dark-haired "nesthesiologist, hypnotist and author."

Opposing sides then settled down to the selection of a 14-member jury, two of whom will serve as alternates.

Only one juror was picked from the first eight examined Monday. He was James E. Jeram Jr., a married employee of an ice cream manufacturer.

Farber, a 50-year-old retired artillery officer, and his wife, Marjorie, lived diagonally across the street from Coppolino and his first wife, Carmela, 32, in the tree-shaded Fox Run section of Middletown.

The colonel's sudden death July 30, 1963, was attributed to heart attack according to a death certificate signed by Mrs. Coppolino. Both Coppolinos held medical doctors' degrees although neither practiced medicine at the time of Farber's death.

Early in 1965, Coppolino and his wife moved to Sarasota, Fla. Mrs. Farber followed four months later and took a house next door.

On Aug. 28, 1965, Carmela Coppolino died suddenly of what was listed as a heart seizure. Less than six weeks later Coppolino married Mary Gibson, an attractive 39-year-old divorcee, and moved into her luxurious waterfront home.

Mrs. Farber then went to

Rockefeller Settles Into Life in Harlem

NEW YORK (AP) — Laurence Rockefeller took a seat in the steamy lunchroom in East Harlem's slums and ordered a 45-cent Whopperburger and a soda.

Later, he returned to his tenement over Juanita's beauty salon where he will live among the Puerto Ricans in the building.

For the next year, life in the slums will be the life of the 22-year-old son of one of the world's wealthiest families.

He'll work seven days a week for $50 a month plus room and board and $2.50 a day pocket money because, as he puts it, "I want to help others help themselves."

Rockefeller is the son of Laurence S. Rockefeller, a noted conservationist, and the nephew of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. He was graduated from Harvard last June and spent the summer flying around the world in his private plane.

Young Rockefeller was among 10 persons from across the country who began an eight-week training program Monday to qualify for VISTA, which stands for Volunteers in Service to America.

It meant moving out of the family's swank Fifth Avenue residence into a world of Whopperburgers and apartment buildings festooned with fire escapes.

Part of Laurence's job will be to encourage residents to work in community activities and help them take advantage of city services.

On his first day, the discussion eventually got around to money and Laurence told newsmen: "As you might know, I have money of my own. But I don't plan to touch it while I'm working here. I don't see why $50 a month shouldn't be enough with rent and food taken care of."

The recruits also included Tweed Roosevelt, 24-year-old great-grandson of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Rockefeller summed up his aspirations: "Having an independent income gives me more freedom over the long span to devote myself to public service activities which I find more challenging than anything else."

"The type of (block) project struck me. You're living on the block and dealing with the whole problem of poverty. All the problems seem to go back to a common level — fear and desperation and hopelessness."

Church Assembly Tries To Unite Opposing Camps

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sharp cleavage was pointed up today among American Christians over evangelistic methods, but a surprise move appeared in the making to get the two opposing camps to pull together.

The overtures for making common cause — even though advocates of the old and new evangelism differed markedly — developed at a session of the National Council of Churches' General Assembly.

Baptist evangelist Billy Graham sparked the outpouring of pleas for an alliance between conservative evangelicals, who stress conversion by preaching, and a modern school, stressing persuasion by social action.

Some conservative evangelicals, including many small but vigorous missionary-minded denominations, make up the largest bloc outside the National Council although many of them are in churches belonging to it.

The council has 30 member denominations — most of the country's largest Protestant and Orthodox bodies with a total of 14 million believers. There are an estimated 20 million conservative evangelicals outside the council. About half of them are Southern Baptist.

They recently held a world congress on evangelism in Berlin, and a series of reports on that meeting — including one from Graham — touched off the appeals Monday night for the two factions to join forces, despite their differences.

That key differences exist was emphasized earlier at a news conference.

"There is a real clash, not just a fake war," said the Rev. Colin Williams, a Methodist and the council's evangelism secretary, who maintained that effective evangelism must be linked with work to improve social conditions.

Later in a special session on the subject, Graham also cited the differing views, but said both approaches had their uses.

"There are two needs," he said, "a conversion from the world to Christ and second, a conversion from Christ back to the world, the fruit of which is neighbor love expressed in social service."

"There is a great segment in the church that believes the two go hand in hand and I'm one of them."

Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, president of the University of Oregon and former U. S. secretary of health, education and welfare, was expected to be elected president of the council today.

A Methodist, he would succeed Evangelical United Brethren Bishop Reuben H. Mueller of Indianapolis.
